Organisation	A Moment's Peace Theatre Company
Address	Flat 2/2 18 Melville Street Glasgow G41 2LW
Telephone Number	0141 423 6696
Email Address	amomentspeace@gmail.com
Artistic Director	Catrin Evans

A Moment's Peace is a Glasgow based theatre company. Their innovative and varied performance events seek to engage with as wide an audience and participant group as possible. They have created and produced two critically acclaimed plays: 'That's What We Should All Be Mourning' (Edinburgh Fringe 2004) and 'Petrified Paradise' (The Arches 2006). Their most recent production 'The Chronicles of Narnia', a collaboration with Iranian born artist Maryam Hamidi, played at The Arches in September 2008 and will be touring Scotland in autumn 2009.

In 2008 they completed two exciting projects: 'Testing', a performance workshop that toured Glasgow schools as part of the city-wide engagement with The 16 Days of Action to Eliminate Violence Against Women programme, and Creativity and Self-Expression, a ten week project working with female refugees to explore story-telling and empowerment.

Their performance events and project are sites where performer and audience, ideology and creativity come together to produce an experience that challenges, excites, informs and inspires.

It offers a diverse range of dance and physical activities for all abilities which develop well-being, inspire confidence and explore creativity in a welcoming and non-competitive environment. This is achieved through the 4 different strands of its programme:

- Dance House @ Heart, a public class programme, of over 50 classes, with a lively mix of dance styles in various venues throughout Glasgow.
- Dance House @ Large, an eclectic programme of dance performances and special events.
- Dance House @ Your Place, an extensive education, in-service, outreach and corporate programme with a wide portfolio of clients.
- Professional Opportunities @ Dance House, a professional support programme offering continued professional development to support and promote professional dancers. This provides training in creative, physical, performance, collaborative, personal and teaching skills with a programme of master classes, workshops and special events designed to develop skill levels and to cross creative boundaries with mentoring opportunities and administration resources and advice. A range of opportunities support artists in choreographic development, including Creative Labs and Choreographic Development Residencies.

Gamelan Naga Mas are a Glasgow based Music ensemble that perform traditional and contemporary music on Javanese gamelan instruments. The group's performance programmes focus on traditional Indonesian music, linked with various art forms such as dance, theatre, storytelling and puppetry. Naga Mas have worked closely with visiting artists from Java and Bali presenting music concerts as well as productions of Wayang Kulit (shadow puppet theatre), Topeng (mask-dance), Ketoprak (dance-drama) and related forms of theatre. The music of the group draws deeply on the performing arts of Central Java, West Java and Bali whilst showcasing their own contemporary music style that explores wide ranging inter/cultural ideas with links to contemporary and Celtic music.

Gamelan Naga Mas are a unique ensemble which is ethnically diverse, co-directed, and community based. The group have been guardians, caretakers and celebrators of the gamelan instruments since their arrival in Scotland in 1990 when they were commissioned by Glasgow City Council for the Year of Culture celebrations. This gamelan set is named 'Spirit of Hope' and was made in Yogyakarta, Java, by gamelan maker Pak Suhirjan.

Their creative programmes integrate performance with community workshops, encouraging participation for all age groups, and in all education environments. A series of introductory courses for beginners provides a pathway for the public to both play and study Indonesian music, and discover the remarkable sounds of the gamelan orchestra. These workshops can lead to membership in the ensemble.

The name of the group means Golden Dragon Orchestra.

Glasgow Film Theatre (GFT) is one of the UK's most critically and commercially successful, independent, specialist cinemas. The cinema occupies a unique position in Glasgow and the West of Scotland, playing a major role in the cultural life of the city, and beyond, by providing a programme of film, video and television; most of which would not otherwise be available. Around 450 titles are screened across the two cinemas each year. The programme is international in scope and offers new and innovative film and video alongside more familiar work, shown within the context of the history of world cinema. This rich programme, together with the Modernist European building, post art deco interior and quality of service combine to make up the total GFT experience.

Indepen-dance was founded in 1996, as an integrated dance company which provides creative movement/dance classes, training and performance opportunities for people with diverse abilities, their carers and volunteers.

What we do

In order to achieve their aims that provide:

- 10 weekly dance classes at RSAMD, the Centre for Contemporary Arts and Tramway in Glasgow
- 4 or 5 training workshops with practitioners from across the UK per year
- 2 professional performance projects per year
- Outreach dance work to schools and nurseries

Throughout the year the company performs work of high artistic quality created in collaboration with professional choreographers and dancers. Indepen-dance enables individuals with learning disabilities to participate in and benefit fully from a high quality arts provision.

Indepen-dance is committed to integration rather than segregation, and all activities are offered to people with and without disabilities, offering individuals the opportunity to learn from each other and share a creative experience.

Artistic Director	Virginia Radcliffe

Licketyspit has become well known for the distinctive and popular Early Years theatre shows they have produced in Scotland over the last eight years. Molly Whuppie, Quangle Wangle, Hare & Tortoise, Green Whale, Magic Spaghetti, Wee Witches and most recently, Heelie-go-Leerie and LicketyLeap, have been widely performed in schools, community halls and theatres, to critical and acclaim and the enthusiastic endorsement of teachers, parents and most importantly, children.

Licketyspit shows are uniquely popular with inclusive audiences from Nursery to P7 and whole families, including children with additional needs, however, the company's work remains focused on and defined by, its relationship with Early Years children. Every show is developed through developmental workshops and pilot performances and accompanied by education resources. Licketyspit's work is notable for the way in which it captures children's imaginations and has a long term impact on their play. The company also performs LicketyTales – story-telling performances, out with its main tours.

Education

Luminous Music create world-music educational projects for children and adults. They feature a wide range of music programmes that focus on drumming and percussion music. Pupils are encouraged to develop musical skills and performance awareness on a unique range of world percussion instruments that include many different hand drums and Indonesian Gamelan instruments. A special series of imagination-centred workshops (Modern Myth Making) bring world-music concepts to very young children through music, storytelling and movement activities.

Performance

Luminous Music develop new music for contemporary dance and international gamelan performance. Located in Glasgow, with two of the top UK percussionists, they provide live percussion music for contemporary dance classes, ballet and theatre, working with organisations such as Scottish Dance Theatre, Dance House, Youth Dance Scotland, Scottish Ballet and London Contemporary Dance School at The Place.

Recording

The Luminous Music Archive is a resource of compositions and recordings for dance, theatre and film with works written for London Contemporary Dance Theatre, BBC, ITV and for many different choreographers and dance companies throughout the world. This catalogue features a great deal of new music by Jon Keliehor, and is clearly a remarkable series of recordings that explore many different tonalities and combinations of percussion instruments. Recordings are available on CD and DVD, with a complete catalogue available at www.luminous-music.com

Using the youth theatre/drama process to develop not only creativity and performance skills but also transferable skills in participants, Scottish Youth Theatre puts particular emphasis on each individual's personal and social development. This process encourages children and young people to improve self-confidence, self-image and self-esteem. The range of activities offers an opportunity for progression through the Company, from weekly classes to specialist classes, and from Summer Festival to casting for theatre, film & television and beyond.

For participants who have shown promise and are interested in a career in any aspect of theatre, film and television, there is Scottish Youth Theatre's high quality, high profile project and performance group, SYT Productions. This group provides pre-professional training and experience in working across many disciplines including script development; production; performance; directing; leading workshops and technical theatre.

Scottish Youth Theatre also works in partnership with schools, youth theatres, youth groups and national agencies to deliver tailor-made Special Projects. Each project is devised and developed to suit the requirements of each client group.

Theatre Arts Workshops are an exciting new addition to Tramway's Participate Programme. The exploratory and collaborative cross-art-form workshops are facilitated by a host of talented professional artists (performance, art, film, music, dance, drama, sound-art, clowning, stand-up, poetry) and co-ordinated by Rachel Clive. The workshops are for adults with diverse capabilities who have an interest in developing their performing arts skills. Workshops are open to people with an interest in exploring new forms, new dialogues and the rich creative spaces that exist between us, from the understanding that we all have very different capabilities, and we are all artists. The group meets weekly. Please contact Tramway directly if you would like to book a place, but be advised that places are limited and there is currently a waiting list.
